A man in a bright red robe is walking barefoot on a light-colored tiled floor. He is moving from left to right, looking down at his hands. The background is a large, curved wall made of dark, textured rectangular blocks. A small, illuminated rectangular opening in the wall shows a white object. The scene is dimly lit, with a spotlight on the man and the wall. In the distance, another person in a red robe is visible, walking away. The floor is dark and reflective.
